

The login screen has a basic color theme. It will not match the style of the app once the team adds pixel art and more colors.

The main garden screen also has no theme and coherent design. The inventory is cluttered and it's hard to scroll through and find what plant you want. The garden is also in a scroll view which means the garden is not stationary. This harms the interactivity and experience of the user when they want to plant items.

The shop page doesn't give much information to the user right away. The shop items are large and one plant fills the entire screen. Future plans to reduce the size of items and give the shop page a more balanced view.

The friends page still needs a listview to display friends of the user.
